

A specific group of buildings and/or structures in Salt Lake City are designed as 'Essential Facilities'. Included in this group are all Group I-2 Occupancies with two or more operating rooms built in the future in Salt Lake City. As identified in the 2006 International Building Code (IBC), essential facilities are defined in Section 1602 as:

“Buildings and other structures that are intended to remain operational in the event of extreme environmental loading from flood, wind, snow or earthquakes” (Emphasis added)

Practically speaking, this means that any health care facilities that meet the definition of a Group I-2 Occupancy per Section 308.3 of the 2006 IBC, with State Amendments, will be required to be enclosed in a structure designed and built in accordance with the highest Occupancy Hazard Category: IV, as identified in Table 1604.5 of the 2006 IBC.
